

We at CAPS are saddened and outraged by the recent horrific anti-Semitic attack at the Tree of Life Synagogue in Pittsburgh, PA, which resulted in the loss of 11 lives and trauma to many others. Although hate and violence toward Jews is not new to this country, it is a shock nonetheless when a tragedy such as this one occurs. We are one nation, and when some of us are threatened and terrorized, the health of the nation suffers. There is no place for hate at UCSC. Student Health Services, including the Health Center, CAPS, SHOP, and CARE, stand in solidarity with those facing oppression and violence.

We are here for you. We are here to listen and support you. If you are struggling with the personal impact of this tragedy or the tone of the national discussions, or if you are experiencing negative treatment, threats, or more subtle forms of oppression because of your religious affiliation, ethnicity, or other aspect of your identity, we are here for you.

We are here to provide support and care to all UCSC students with medical and mental health concerns.
